"Aloha and welcome to the World War II
Valor in the Pacific National Monument!"

We are so glad you're here and that you've taken on the challenge to complete our Keiki Ranger Activity Book. The word "keiki" means "child" in Hawaiian, so this book was designed with you, our youngest visitors, in mind! Have fun with it. Before you begin, we'd like to share with you a few important things to remember:

1. Please be respectful of property and others around you: Be mindful of your noise levels and refrain from climbing, sitting, or leaning on displays and exhibits.
2. While we recognize that many of our keiki visitors are very talented artists, please take special care to make sure that the crayons are only used for coloring in the activity book.
3. Most importantly: Enjoy your visit and this special opportunity to remember, honor, and understand the history here at the Pearl Harbor Visitor Center!

Once you've completed all the activities, visit the bookstore to find the WWII Valor in the Pacific National Monument stamp to mark your official date of completion. Then, bring this book to the National Park Service Tickets and Information desk to receive your Junior Park Ranger badge!
